WASHINGTON DC (Aug 3, 2017) – The United States Senate has confirmed Jessica Rosenworcel and Brendan Carr to fill open seats on the Federal Communications Commission (FCC).

In response, Chip Pickering, CEO of INCOMPAS, the internet and competitive networks association, released the following statement:

“With a full plate of issues, America needs a full set of FCC commissioners at the table. We wish to congratulate both Jessica Rosenworcel and Brendan Carr on their Senate confirmations and look forward to working with them both on building a more open, competitive internet and broadband future.

Jessica is a champion for the future and has always placed students, schools, public safety and the law of competition at the forefront of her policy-making. Brendan has a deep well of substantive spectrum and agency knowledge and we look forward to learning more about his vision for better broadband.

“We are living in a streaming revolution and American consumers, innovators, schools and small business leaders need more choices for broadband that bring faster speeds and more affordable choices.”
