INCOMPAS Statement on the Passing of Mary Albert

WASHINGTON DC (October 5th, 2016) – Mary Albert, longtime policy advocate and attorney for the competitive network trade association, INCOMPAS (formerly CompTel), died Wednesday morning in Washington DC. Mary currently worked at the Electronic Transactions Association.

Chip Pickering, CEO of INCOMPAS, released the following statement:

“Today we lost a dear friend, colleague and longtime champion for competition policy. Mary Albert was truly a one of a kind talent. She was an attorney and advocate who could access a library of substance on a dime, and wielded the power of the pen with unmatched skill. A tireless advocate for policies and principles she loved, and a friend and mentor who always took the time to listen and laugh with co-workers who adored her.

“On behalf of everyone in the INCOMPAS/CompTel organization, past and present, we want to extend our thoughts and prayers to her family. Mary is gone far too soon, but she has left an everlasting impact on our lives and on an industry she helped shape.”
